

This is an unprecedented abuse of media power that must be stopped. It is unthinkable that a broadcasting conglomerate could mandate that propaganda billed as news documentary be pushed upon the communities they serve in a blatant effort to electioneer. This is not only a disservice to the communities these affiliates are supposed to serve directly, it is a crime against the American electorate, especially those who's votes are based on informed opinion and not spoon-fed, corporate propaganda.